

Who is Heather Monson, and why should you hire her?

To find out, we consulted the experts.*

Michael (M): She's supermom. She cares for everyone in her sphere of influence. She's a great multitasker. She finishes a job, then moves on to the next and the next and the next without fanfare.

Jez (J): No argument there, but I'm pretty sure she's a timelord. She pops up whenever and wherever she's needed most. She gets an inhuman amount of stuff done. She knows way more than you'd expect but never beats you over the head with it.

Isaac (I): Right you are, m'dear, but no T.A.R.D.I.S.

J: You know how much she used to cram in that minivan. Pretty sure it was bigger on the inside. Timelord.

I: Okay, maybe, but I think she wound up with a Ring of Power. She's so persuasive and so connected, there's gotta be magic involved. And I swear, in the dozen-plus years I've known her, she never aged a day 'til she started having kids.

M: Not the One Ring, though. Frodo destroyed that one. They made movies about it.

I: Nah. I figure one of the Elven ones. Sauron never got his hands on those.

J: Yeah, I can see that. You think Galadriel gave her Nenyà before heading off to the Undying Lands?

I: Probably left her the keys to Lothlórien, too.

J: And she never ran a LARP module there? Psh. Jerk.

* While this conversation is fictional, the people are real and, if asked, will gladly share their high opinions of me.